STAYING HEALTHY

Health is a precious commodity. For us as individuals – and for you as an employer. Absenteeism imposes steep costs on companies and the broader economy. More concretely, it fouls up business processes and cuts into your company's productivity. Your machines and equipment receive regular preventive maintenance. Your employees deserve this kind of preventive treatment even more.

PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE

CHECK YOUR EMPLOYEES FROM HEAD TO TOE

Healthy workers accomplish more. That is a big reason why it is the employers' job to ensure their staff get the medical care they need. We can help – with preventive check-ups to identify potential health risks before they develop into diseases.

This service is 100% voluntary for your employees.

Healthy employees are the ultimate competitive edge. By maintaining their work capacity and reducing absenteeism, you are doing something for them as well as for your company's bottom line. Offer this preventive program to your employees – a free service that goes far beyond what their own doctors do and what their insurance covers. The preventive check-up is the ideal tool for preventing disease and boosting productivity. It lets workers avoid disease by taking preventive steps or at least detect it at an early stage. That way, they can take action before symptoms even occur. And in many cases, an early diagnosis allows them to avoid taking medication altogether.

In addition to an exhaustive lab panel, our physicians will examine your employees closely. All the test results will be explained in a final consultation and possible consequences discussed, including recommended follow-up testing and treatment. The Industrial Clinic provides standard preventive check-ups and programs as well as more extensive site- and job-specific value-added services such as consulting and training on nutrition, stress or other health issues. Employees are more satisfied when they feel well taken care of. In an era when people work longer and skilled labor is increasingly scarce, it is tremendously important for companies to invest in their workers' well-being: The preventive check-up is an excellent employee retention tool, too.
